Item 4 EPA Local Authority Environmental Enforcement Performance Report
Sean McKeown updated the committee on the performance report and the EPA Audit held on 19th September last.

He acknowledged that overall, the results in respect of Kilkenny County Council’s performance in 2022 were disappointing and not acceptable. He said the Council are taking the findings seriously. He said the under-performance is largely due to the fact that a number of staff in critical positions left the Environment Section during 2022 and it has proved difficult to replace them in the current competitive employee market. He wished to state that the nature of the work undertaken by Environment staff is that they have to prioritise complaints and this is not fully reflected in the report. He said the report is not all negative. It did acknowledge the excellent governance structures in place in the Council in terms of our ambitious targets; our review and reporting and complaints handling. He said he did not want the Report to define the work of the Environment Section as a lot of the good work undertaken by Environment staff is not measured by the EPA and therefore is not included in the report, including Control of Horses and the Animal Welfare Committee, Tidy Towns, anti-dumping initiative works, court cases progressed and environmental awareness work.

Michael Arthurs also addressed the issues raised in the report and the EPA Audit. Michael gave a presentation to the committee outlining the results in the report. Michael re-iterated that the results do not reflect the full extent of work that is happening on the ground. The results for Kilkenny and 3 other neighbouring counties attracted national media attention. Kilkenny County Council are committed to addressing non-compliances in the RMCEI and staff recruitment is underway. It is imperative that relevant qualified and competent staff are employed.

Cllr Joe Lyons thanked Michael for his presentation. He acknowledged the hard work of Environment staff and noted his disappointment that a lot of the work done is not measured in the audit.

Many contributions and queries were received from Cllr Mary Hilda Cavanagh, James Murphy, Cllr. Deirdre Cullen, Cllr. Maria Dollard and Cllr. David Fitzgerald, which may be summarised as follows:

- The EPA report is very sobering;
- Should Local Authorities be involved in farm inspections at all?;
- Environment staff are 100% responsive;
- There is a need for more air quality monitors;
- Team Up to Clean Up Event does not add value;
- Kilkenny County Council suffers reputational damage as a result of the report;
- Water quality deterioration is a critical issue for the country;
- Changes to septic grants need to be well publicised;
- Data in EPA Water Quality Reports are not up to date

Michael Arthurs and Sean McKeown addressed all queries raised.

Cllr Joe Lyons thanked Dearbhala for her presentation and commented that it was good to see a great response from communities.

Gratitude was extended to the Climate Action Team from the Committee and contributions were received from James Murphy and Cllr. Maria Dollard, which may be summarised as follows:
